Mrs. James Beggs Leads PTA Fight for Carrier Mills Library

HELP WANTED: An effort is being made to secure a library at Carrier Mills and Mrs. James Beggs is right in the middle of it.

Mrs. Beggs is president of the Carrier Mills grade school Parent-Teacher association, more familiarly known as the PTA, and this organization is starting out to get a library for the community.

Right now she needs the support of all the PTA members and she wants to get them all together at one time.

So she is asking that all the PTAs, which means the fathers and mothers of children in the Carrier Mills grade school, to meet at 7 p. m. Monday at the school building.

So be there, you Carrier Mills people. Your attendance will mean a lot toward getting a library; and a library is important to any community.

AROUND THE COURT HOUSE: "We're bringing up a fellow in a few minutes to process before he is taken to Vandalia," said Deputy Sheriff Jim Lyon to Timmo a couple of mornings ago.

"What's his name?" I asked, and the reply was "Bernard Laswell." "Bernard Laswell, Bernard Laswell," I said a couple of times. "I've heard that name before—how big a fellow is he; how old is he?"

"He's a little fellow—forty-seven years old," Lyon answered. "I believe I remember him," said Timmo. "When he comes in—ask him if he ever was picked up here in Harrisburg."

Laswell soon arrived and Lyon asked him. He said yes, but it was a long time ago. How long? Twenty or twenty-five years ago, he stated.

"Were you picked up here after a shooting scrape?" I asked the man.

"Yes," he replied. "How did you know—it was 20 or 25 years ago?"

"It was in 1932—June or July," I said to him.

"Are you sure? I got in an argument with my cousin up near West End, over in Hamilton county, and I shot him and beat it," he said.

"I'm sure of the date," I said. "And it was Charlie Rude, who was a policeman then, who picked you up down here."

"I don't know the policeman's name," said Laswell, "but he picked me up here."

I went out for a few minutes, still thinking about the incident and trying to recall more facts. Then I returned and said, "Wasn't the fellow you shot named Hammock?"

"That's right," he told me, "but how in the world do you remember all that?"

"Because," I answered, "it was the first story I ever wrote for The Daily Register, and a reporter's first story will make an impression."

"Looks like I'm giving you another one right now," he remarked.

A check of the files shows the story in the issue of July 2, 1932. I'd just finished college in June and was anxious to display my talent in journalism.

Grady Sutton and Danny Law, the two local officers, had been killed by gunmen the day before and Curt Small had called me over to help out in the emergency. First Hammock yarn. The article in the paper disclosed he made his confession to Rude and me. He was turned over to Hamilton county authorities.

This time he made the trip for writing fraudulent checks.

District Group Views Practices On County Tour

Congressman Praises Work of Conservation Service

Eight Saline county farms where soil conservation practices are in effect were visited yesterday on the county tour of the Saline County Soil Conservation district.

In the caravan were district directors and associate directors of the soil conservation district and their farm planner, Thomas Morgan, Farm Bureau directors and their farm adviser, L. B. Kimmel, representatives of banks, ministers, members of the FHA county committee and the county FHA supervisor, Ronald Coon, and Cong. Kenneth Gray of West Frankfort.

Farms visited were Willard Bramlet and Freda Gates north of Muddy, Art Wintzler at Big Ridge, Reuel Thaxton in Cottage, Frank Sutton south of Eldorado, Victor Suttner west of Greenhill school, the Otis Carter farm managed by C. J. Wagner north of Greenhill school, and Alvah Gholson north of Eldorado.

Grass Waterway At the Willard Bramlet farm the group saw a grass waterway established in 1948-49, approximately 3,600 feet long, which drains about 175 acres. Originally it was a gully with a depth of five or six feet in places. Most of the work was done with farm equipment.

A concrete block toe-wall was inspected at the Gates farm. This is a structure for holding the out-lets of waterways and is used where there is a small drainage area and where the overfall is low. These can be built at less than $50 with ready-mixed concrete and less when it is mixed at the farm.

A flume to lower water from the field level into an outlet ditch was seen at Mr. Wintzler's place. No lumber is needed for forms when being constructed. Mr. Wintzler's flume has a four-foot overfall and nine cubic yards of concrete were required. There are six in the county and about 100 are needed.

A Sudan grass pasture also was inspected at the Wintzler farm.

Deep Pond Rene Thaxton's farm pond, 12-foot deep, was visited. It was pointed out that water from a properly constructed pond can be used about the house as well as for watering livestock, that deep ponds are to be preferred to shallow ones. Fencing the livestock away from the pond and putting in a filter are essential for clean water, it also was stated.

Mr. Sutton's farm plan was inspected south of Eldorado. The plan provided for proper land use, the establishment of waterways,

Ohio Postpones Action to End Reciprocity

SPRINGFIELD — Illinois motor vehicle administrators Friday received Ohio's notice that action to end license reciprocity between the states has again been postponed, this time to Sept. 24.

William B. Westbrook, chief clerk of the Automobile Department in the secretary of state's office, announced receipt of a telegram from the Ohio Reciprocity Board.

Ohio had previously given Illinois and some other states a deadline of Sept. 8 to agree to continue license reciprocity with provision for paying Ohio's axle-mile tax on multiple axle trucks as part of the agreement.

The other states have refused to amend their reciprocity agreement with Ohio by accepting the axle-mile tax.

Westbrook said it appeared Illinois would either have to keep maintaining Ohio's axle-mile tax as a reciprocity agreement violation or would have to charge Ohio trucks for Illinois licenses in this state if the Ohio tax is accepted.

Crown Carmi Girl Miss Illinois Rural Electric

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. — Administrator Archer Nelson said today the REA is rebuilding distribution systems to handle higher power loads and developing greater power supplies for the future.

Nelson addressed the Association of Illinois Electric Cooperatives, a group of 27 cooperatives which serve 136,000 members. About 400 co-op managers, directors and members are attending the meeting.

The association elected three directors for three year terms today. Elected were Ivan H. Snow, El Paso, of the Cornbelt Electric Co. operative of Bloomington; Edward Opler, Shobonier, Southwestern Electric Cooperative of Greenville; and Phillip Heggenheimer, the Tri-County Electric Cooperative of Mount Vernon.

Rosanne Allen, 18, Carmi, a University of Illinois sophomore representing the White-Wayne County Cooperative, Thursday night was crowned Miss Illinois Rural Electric Co-op of 1955. She will compete in the national REA beauty queen contest in St. Louis.

Patsy Joan Gilson, La Harpe, was second, and Alma Littrell, 17, Elizabethton, third. Barbara Anna Gordon, 17, Blandinsville, won the talent contest.

Reviewing REA growth, Nelson said "the experience of 20 years has taught us rural electrification will never be done so long as rural people want better living and better ways to do farm jobs."

He said in the next five years borrowers will invest $41 million dollars in new co-op facilities, including 202 million dollars in 1956. New consumers will be connected at the rate of 125,000 a year.

Nelson said he has "stuck my neck out" for "integration and inter-connection agreements" between cooperatives and private power firms. He said the "facts of power" demand such agreements as most economical.

Supreme Court to Convene Monday; May Rule on Sales Tax, Driver License Laws

SPRINGFIELD — The Illinois Supreme Court convenes Monday for a term which may decide important questions on sales taxes, driver's license and truck license laws.

Also ready for decision by the court is the appeal of Michael Moretti, former Chicago detective who killed two boys and wounded another in a 1951 shooting spree.

Moretti, convicted of the murder of one of the boys, has asked for a verdict reversal on grounds the trial court erred in admitting certain prosecuting evidence and testimony, including that by the surviving youth.

The state has asked the high court to uphold the 1953 "tough" driver's license law, ruled unconstitutional by McLean County Circuit Judge William C. Radloff.

Revoked Many Licenses The secretary of state has revoked and suspended thousands of driver's licenses under the law, which gives the secretary broad authority to discipline drivers for law violations.

Radloff, in dismissing an indictment against Bloomington Police Magistrate Walter C. Reiner for failure to make reports of traffic violations to the secretary, said the law gave judicial authority to the secretary and required administrative duties of the courts.

The court could decide a test case involving the retailer's occupational or sales tax. This case questions the state's right to collect the tax on railroad equipment sold by a Chicago manufacturer for use by railroads outside the state.

Charles Mansfield, head of the Farm to Market Truckers Association, has again brought the truck license law of 1951 to the court. This law substantially boosted truck license fees starting in 1952. The Cook County trial court has ruled the U. S. and State Supreme Courts have already upheld the law. But Mansfield appealed on grounds he has raised new and unanswered objections.

Reservoir Case Up Other cases ready for decision include these questions:

Whether the city of West Frankfort can control the drilling of oil wells near its water reservoir to avoid danger of water supply contamination by salt water.

Detachment of a land area from Trico Community Unit School District in Perry, Randolph and Jackson counties and annexation of the land to Steeleville Community District.

Find $27,000 on Body of Woman Rushed to Hospital

OKAWVILLE, Ill. — Washington county officials said today the daughter of an Okawville physician, taken to an Alton hospital apparently suffering from malnutrition, had more than $27,000 in cash and bonds tied to her body.

The woman, Miss Ruth Schmidt, 45, daughter of Dr. Herman Schmidt, died in the Alton State hospital Thursday. Schmidt is in a serious condition from uremic poisoning at St. Elizabeth's hospital in Belleville.

Miss Schmidt and her father were removed to the hospitals Monday night after officers broke into their home. Police said neighbors heard Schmidt moaning with pain and called officers when the daughter refused to admit them.

The woman told the officers when they entered the house they were too late because she had just taken sleeping pills. Authorities said her death was due to the effects of the pills.

Schmidt has practiced medicine in the Okawville area for 50 years.

Neighbors said Miss Schmidt had told them she didn't have enough money to buy food. However, officers said she had $27,000 worth of government bonds and $807 in cash tied to her body when taken to the hospital.

Competition Wide Open in Miss America Contest

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS United Press Staff Correspondent ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (UP) — Then Thursday night, along comes Miss Florida in the second night of talent—Sandra Wirth, who twirls a mean baton. Not only that, but she is a little dangerous with it. She doesn't mess with the garden variety of batons. She twirls with the sticks on fire.

In the swim suit section was Ann Campbell, Miss Oklahoma, and there we were again—a perfect figure, weight 117, bust 36 inches, hips the same and a 24 waist. Not only that, but shoe size 7 and glove 6½. Ann is a brunette.

So there you are. It looks like anybody could win. The competition is wide open and a lot of things could happen and certainly a lot of tears will drip before the

Search Okinawa Area for B29 With 13 Aboard

Empty Liferift, Oil Slick Found Floating in Pacific

NAHA, Okinawa — A low-flying search plane today spotted an empty rubber liferift, debris and an oil slick floating on the Pacific Ocean where a missing U. S. Air Force B29 bomber with 13 men aboard radioed its last report.

Planes and ships converged on the area to investigate the flotsam and to look for possible survivors.

BURBANK, Calif. — Lockheed Air Terminal officials said today was "a miracle" that not more than three persons were killed when a twin-engine shuttle passenger plane crashed on the terminal's airstrip.

They attributed the low fatality toll mostly to the fact that crash crews were alongside the plane within 40 seconds and poured streams of water on the fuselage as the passengers were helped from the plane.

But Lockheed fire chief Jack O'Connor said scores of groundmen were close to the crash and that the plane smashed into a hangar only minutes before aircraft workers would have gone there for a mid-morning coffee break.

The unscheduled DC3 airliner, carrying a crew of 3 and 30 passengers, encountered trouble shortly after taking off Thursday and returned to the field for an emergency landing. It rammed a parked plane, careened off another on the runway and then smashed into the hangar.

Auto Catches Fire After Collision

A car driven by Robert L. Cavey, 38, of Enfield Route 2 caught fire after a collision last night at the Starlite drive-in theatre on Route 45 between Harrisburg and Eldorado.

The other vehicle in the collision was driven by Yules Prince, 27, of Harrisburg Route 4, who was taken to Peace hospital suffering a badly lacerated lip and a head injury. He was the only casualty in the crash.

State Policeman Adolph Sweat, who with State Policeman Roy A. Lane covered the crash, said that Prince's car hit the rear of the Enfield machine as Cavey was turning in at the drive-in.

When the Cavey car caught fire, a theatre employee used an extinguisher on the flames, holding them down until the Eldorado fire department arrived. The interior of the vehicle was burned extensively.

Injured When Truck Overturns

P. W. Baker of Brownfield in Pope county is in a serious condition at Lightner hospital suffering injuries received when his gravel truck overturned on Williams Hill late yesterday.

Dr. Harold Brown, who is attending him, said Baker's injuries included multiple rib fractures, deep lacerations, a brain concussion and injuries to his back. Reports were that he was following another vehicle and when he did not show up, the driver went back to see what had happened and came upon the wreck.

Union Postpones Illinois Bell Strike

CHICAGO — A strike against the Illinois Bell Telephone Co. was postponed today, even though the company-union contract expired at midnight.

The union had voted in favor of striking, but a union spokesman said the union was willing to extend the contract on a day-to-day basis.

The talks affect 7,822 employees in 339 communities in Illinois and in Lake and Porter counties, Indiana.

The money is part of $600,000 paid in 1953 to the kidnap-slayers of Bobby Greenlease. Only $292,280 of the money was recovered at the time of the killers' capture.

Find Seven More Ransom Bills

CHICAGO — Seven more bills from the $307,720 missing Greenlease ransom money have been discovered in the Federal Reserve Bank here, the FBI reported Thursday night.

The discoveries brought the amount of $20 Greenlease bills found at the bank in the last week to 15. Seven others have turned up elsewhere in the country for a total of 22 or $440.

The bills reached the Chicago bank in the regular course of business from 1,000 member banks in northern Illinois, northern Indiana, southern Wisconsin and Iowa.

Their discovery here has led FBI agents to believe that someone is finally unloading the missing blood money in the Midwest.

Mother Accused as Accessory in Daughter's Death

PHILADELPHIA — Mrs. Gertrude Silver, wanted for questioning for two weeks as a "key witness," agreed through her attorney today to appear at a hearing on charges of being an accessory in the abortion-death of her daughter.

The 49-year-old woman, in seclusion in her fashionable suburban home under psychiatric care for reported "bereavement shock," surrendered through counsel after warrants were issued for her arrest as an accessory before the fact of an abortion causing death and on a charge of conspiracy.

Mrs. Silver, wife of a vice president of Food Fair Stores, Inc., had accompanied her daughter, Mrs. Doris Jean Silver Ostreicher, to the North Philadelphia apartment of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Schwartz on Aug. 24, the night the 22-year-old bride of a Miami Beach policeman died from the abortion attempt.

Guard Against Complacency, Truman Warns

CHICAGO — Former President Harry S. Truman warned today the nation must "keep up our guard" and maintain "considerable skepticism" toward Russia's new talk about world peace.

Mr. Truman said he didn't want to "throw a damper" on hopes of peace, but the United States must avoid becoming "complacent" and taking "an easy road that leads to disaster."

"The international picture is not going to change from black to white over night," he declared. "Anyone who tries to tell you that it can or will is either badly misinformed or guilty of a fraud."

The ex-president said the Soviets in recent months have seemed, "on the surface at least, to desire a lessening of world tensions."

But he recalled that the Communists have "talked sweetly, and then sabotaged" other hopes of world peace and said "we cannot tell what the real intentions of the new Soviet leaders are."

"We must and should confer with the Russians," he said.

"We must and should look for peaceful solutions—but never at the price of justice and freedom. We must be sure that while we talk of peace, the balance of power does not shift against the free world."

Mr. Truman's foreign policy address was prepared for delivery at a luncheon of the Executives' Club of Chicago.

Mr. Truman lashed out at cuts in American ground forces as "unjustified and most dangerous." He noted that retired Army chief of staff Gen. Matthew Ridgway criticized these cuts but his remarks were "brushed aside as parochialism."

"If that's what it is, I want to say here and now that I'm from the same parish as General Ridgway," Mr. Truman said.

Alfred Johnson Named to County Board of Review

County Judge Trafton Dennis today announced the appointment of Alfred Johnson of Harrisburg township to the Saline County Board of Review.

Mr. Johnson succeeds Herman McFarlin, Independence township supervisor, whose term expired Sept. 7.

Holdovers on the board are Tom Maxwell of Eldorado township, whose term will expire next year, and William Alfred Smith of Galatia township.

Mr. Smith, a Republican member, is on the board of review by virtue of his being the chairman of the Saline County Board of Supervisors. Mr. Maxwell, a Democratic member, is an appointee to a two year term as is Mr. Johnson, also a Democratic member. The retiring member, Mr. McFarlin, is a Republican.

Political majority on the board is determined by statute, which says that the board shall consist of two members affiliated with the party polling the highest vote at the last general election held in the county. The Democrats did so last November.

The new member, Mr. Johnson, is a well-known farmer in the county. He resides in the extreme eastern part of the township, near the Cottage township line.

Says They are Not Conditions For Relations

German Chancellor Outlines Position To Russian Leaders

MOSCOW — West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer told Soviet leaders today that German reunification and the release of 200,000 German war prisoners still held by the Russians were not "conditions" for the establishment of diplomatic relations between their two countries.

But he emphasized that there could be no "real normalization" of relations between the two peoples until these emotional issues were settled.

Adenauer set for his position before Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin, Communist Party head Nikita S. Khrushchev and Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov at the opening session of five days of Soviet-West German talks.

In an opening statement, Bulganin noted that the Soviet initiated the talks on "the assumption that the establishment of normal relations between our two countries correspond to the interests of both."

In his reply, Adenauer said the questions of German reunification and the release of the prisoners were of major importance. He said solution of these questions was not a "condition" for the establishment of diplomatic relations.

But he added: "I do not believe that it is enough to outlaw war, create security systems, and establish diplomatic, economic and cultural relations. I am much more deeply convinced that a real normalization can only come about when we solve the problems that make the present situation between us abnormal."

"The thought is unbearable that more than 10 years after the end of hostilities that men... are kept away from their families, their homes, and their normal peaceful work."

"You should not consider it a condition when I say: It is unthinkable to establish 'normal' relations between our nations as long as this problem remains unsolved. This is no 'condition.' It is the normalization itself I am speaking of."

He then said the reunification of Germany is "a duty of the Big Four powers," adding "here also I must repeat: I propose no 'conditions.'"

The 79-year-old West German statesman also indicated he did not expect the current negotiations in Spiridonovka Palace in the Kremlin to produce final agreement on the establishment of diplomatic relations.

The Adenauer speech was in reply to an opening statement by Bulganin.

Bulganin welcomed the Germans to the conference table and called for the rapid establishment of West German and Soviet embassies in the capitals of Bonn and Moscow.

The Soviet premier told Adenauer that the Soviet people bore no ill will towards the Germans over World War II.

The initial two-hour meeting was the first time non-Communist German statesmen have made an official visit to Moscow since German Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop called on the late Premier Josef Stalin in August, 1939.

Back to Political A-B-C's

Editorial By Bruce Blossat
When you're out of power as long as the Republicans were before 1952, you can get rusty on some of the laws of politics. In 1954 the voters gave them a slight refresher course, and there's some fear in GOP circles that they may be in for another stiff lesson next year.

Specifically, they're worried over the continued slump of farm income. They believe it hurt them last year and could do so again.
They know the Democrats see the farm issue as one of their hottest.
Then — and now — the GOP response has stressed that the big farm price drop happened under the Democrats. But they aren't saying the message will catch on.
That's where the political law enters. Voters don't always look for the real cause of trouble. They just look to see who's in office when it comes — or when they become aware of it.

A Long-Shot Gamble

Senator McCarthy of Wisconsin seems to have elected to take a very considerable gamble in his political future. And it calls for total opposition to President Eisenhower.

Having been slapped down by the United States Senate last year, McCarthy is no longer commands attention as an investigator. So he's been developing a new approach, and that's where the gamble comes in.

His new approach actually is an extension of the old. He hammers hard on the theme that stiff measures are needed to combat communism in Asia. By this means he seeks to renew the public's portrait of him as the stoutest anti-Communist fighter of all. At the same time he tries to picture the President's attitude as soft, weak and appeasing.

Any politician knows that the risk is great when you oppose even a moderately popular president on an issue where he seems reasonably strong. To oppose Mr. Eisenhower in these circumstances is the wildest sort of political wagering. For his popularity has remained extraordinarily high throughout his nearly three years in office.

Furthermore, McCarthy is on slippery ground in the Asian field.
He blames the President for the French defeat in Indochina, for the fact that North Korea was not conquered by our limited armies, for "knuckling under" to the Reds wherever they apply pressure.

He says, too, that the free Asian countries are in position to launch a three-pronged attack against Red China. He even sees Nationalist Chinese forces moving against the mainland from across the Formosa straits. And he advises us to give aid to at least a move.

Our top military men undoubtedly will find this astounding reading. They have detected no such offensive or strategic capacities in Indochina, South Korea or Formosa.

They know that a move by Chiang Kai-shek against Red China is impossible without major U. S. naval and air support. In other words, if we helped in that kind of a war, we would be in it.

To urge war while the popular
Mr. Eisenhower is urging an honorable, just peace calls indeed for the gambling spirit.

McCarthy must be betting either that the President will not run again — thus opening the GOP to a new right wing-left wing battle for control — or that the Communists in Peking and Moscow will take major aggressive steps that will make only the American extremists look good.

From the response he is getting, the senator plainly is not finding many a fellow lawmakers who will take a piece of his bet.

He is an international dog

For 18 Years

MCLESTER, Okla. (AP) — A life term convict who ended 18 years of pretending he was a deaf mute so he could apply for a parole played his role so perfectly he "didn't turn a muscle" when a truck once blasted its horn a few feet from him, prison officials said today.

The convict is John A. Cane of Oklahoma City, who pleaded guilty in 1934 to murdering his wife and three children during a sudden impulse on a picnic.

Cane broke his silence three years ago in applying for a parole, which subsequently was denied.
But Pardon and Parole Board members were sworn to secrecy because Cane feared reprisal from fellow prisoners who had talked freely in front of the "deaf mute."

Cane said he entered prison living "in a dream world—the same kind of world I was living in" when he killed his wife, two daughters and a son.

"They were a wonderful family.
I made up my mind I would never say another word," Cane explained. "I felt my life was a living hell and I swore to myself I would never open my lips again."

But Cane said he received "an awful electrical shock" one day after he began working in the prison radio shop and it was this which brought him out of his dream world.

"It was as if I had been reborn,"
he said.

New Military Reserve Program May Deprive Youths of Summer Vacations

WASHINGTON — Pentagon officials are concerned about the prospect that the new military reserve program may deprive thousands of young Americans of summer vacations.

Youths who are enrolled in the ready reserves will be required to keep up their training in one of two ways: Either by attending 48 weekly drill sessions, plus two weeks of field training each year; or by spending 30 days in field training each year, without the weekly drill sessions.

Either alternative could wipe out the summer vacation time of many youths who have regular jobs. In an extreme case, a 17-year-old who volunteered for the new "modified UMT" program (six months active training followed by 7 1/2

Mexicans quietly hustled him on a plane bound for San Antonio.

It is enough to say that the federal narcotics boys knew he was coming. D'Agostino got off the plane waiting about being kidnaped.
Meanwhile, a ruthless, but unpublicized international criminal is cooling his heels in the San Antonio clink.

Note: Texas Sen. Price Daniel, chairman of the Senate narcotics investigating committee, is working with state and federal authorities on the D'Agostino case. Needless to say, the French would also like to get their hands on him.

HATCHET MAN AXED
Congress almost hired a personnel expert to investigate his own alleged personal abuses. This convenient arrangement almost went to Henry Domers, who was supposed to direct a special investigation of the Eisenhower administration's personnel policies.

Someone discovered, however, that Domers had been the G-4 hatchet man at the Federal Power Commission. As such, he had scrambled the FPC's personnel structure to make room for more Republican appointees.

This might make him a hero to Republicans, but the Democrats happen to be running Congress.
They claim the Republicans have been kicking out career workers to create vacancies for political appointments. By Democratic standards, Domers was one of the worst offenders.

He had gone so far as to arrange a 90-day leave of absence from the FPC so he could run the personnel investigation for the House Civil Service committee. But meanwhile, Senate probes had been investigating Domers' own record at FPC.

With Domers likely to be called as a witness in the Senate investigation, he seemed hardly the man to head the House investigation. So the job was hastily called off.

FORGOTTEN MAN

With the cold war thawing, today's forgotten man is the serviceman who is still on guard around the world, often neglected by Congress and the taxpayers.

The Third Marine Division, for example, has just been crammed into barracks that the Army had condemned and abandoned on bleak Okinawa. The Marines live in Quonset huts that leak when it rains and heat up like bake ovens when the sun shines. Some 60 to 80 men are crowded into each hut, living in such sticky closeness that the quarters stink like slave ships.

Housing facilities at some Air Force bases are also so atrocious that pilots have been forced to rent homes as much as two hours away from the fields. This has led Gen. Nathan Twining, Air Force chief, to warn: "We could get only about half the fighter planes in the air during the first two hours after an alert."

Congressional penny-pinching can be blamed for most inadequate military housing. In some cases, however, the housing contracts have become snarled in red tape.

For example, the Air Force awarded a contract to construct housing at 23 key air warning stations to the William Rouse company, Falls Church, Va. Because of minor mistakes in the original bid, the Beacon Construction company of Boston protested the award.

This has started a chain of protests and appeals all the way to the comptroller general's office.

Meanwhile, the personnel at these 23 vital warning posts are living either in miserable housing or else out of base. This leaves holes in our warning system through which enemy planes conceivably could fly.

FREEDOM SHIP

To thousands of hunted and herded refugees, the World War II transport General W. M. Black is regarded as sort of a floating statue of Liberty. It may bring a catch to their throats to learn that the worn, old ship has been retired.
Her humanitarian career was ended last month when she was towed into Suisun Bay at the mouth of California's Sacramento river to join the mothball fleet.

The General Black has taken part in every important sea movement of political refugees since 1948. Her passengers have included displaced persons from Europe, White Russians from Shanghai, Dutch soldiers from Java and Poles stranded in Africa. Her latest major service was helping to move 310,000 anti-Communist refugees from northern to southern Vietnam. Almost every modern language has been spoken on her decks.

The Black's sister ship, the General W. C. Langfitt, is sailing in the Black's wake as the freedom ship of the oppressed. She is under charter to the Inter-governmental committee for European migration.

Note: The Black was named after Maj. Gen. William Murray Black, West Point graduate of 1877 and former chief of the Army engineers, who was in charge of raising the battleship Maine's heroic hull from Havana harbor in 1910-11.

Boy Mails Savings
Bank to Eisenhower
For Flood Relief

DENVER (AP) — A young Brooklyn, N. Y., boy was so grateful that "God spared our camp" in the recent eastern hurricanes and floods that he mailed President Eisenhower his personal savings bank containing $4.30 for Red Cross relief.
The summer White House said the cash register type bank has been forwarded to Red Cross headquarters. But there is one catch—the bank won't open until it contains $10.
The young camper, Miles David Storfer, wrote the President that he wanted Mr. Eisenhower to "see and feel how kids all over America" feel about your urgent appeal.
Young Storfer said "You may keep the bank or give it to your grandson David."

55th Annual Moore-Lebo Family Reunion Held at the Moore Homestead

TWO LITTLE QUEENS at Moore reunion Sunday. Above are Kathryn Jane, four-year-old daughter of Rollie and Ethel Moore of Harrisburg, with "Wee Bonnie," a midget Shetland weighing 28 pounds and 21 inches high which caused a lot of excitement among the children. The tiny pony, which belongs to C. C. Moore, is kept on the A. A. Moore farm.

The 55th annual Moore-Lebo Family Reunion was held Sunday, Sept. 4, in Moore's grove five miles west of Harrisburg on Route 13 at the Moore homestead which has been the home of the Moores for 63 years, having been purchased by the late William Alvis Moore from A. B. Bickers in 1892.

The immediate families held a preliminary meeting Saturday night, at which time Mary Louise Moore gave an interesting report of the vacation of the Jesse J. Moore family who visited numerous relatives in California and the Northwest during August. Mrs. Max Rea, Gary, Ind., also entertained showing colored pictures of scenes her family had visited in Europe the previous year, including many in Germany, Holland, France, Italy and Switzerland.

The Sunday program began with the usual sumptuous dinner followed by a short memorial service for deceased relatives. A tape recording of the service program was made so that relatives who could not be present may hear the program when they have the opportunity of being present at future meetings.

The oldest member of the Moore family attending was J. B. (Bailley) Moore, 77, of Harrisburg, and the youngest member present was his grandson, J. B. Junior, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh B. Moore, Marion, being 4 months old. The oldest relative of the Lebo family was Isham Crosson, 88, of Williamson county. The oldest grandson of the Moore family was Herman Riegel of Portales, New Mexico. He could not be present but sent a bushel of peanuts which he had raised on his farm for distribution to the children. Bea Dean of Mexico was the most distant relative attending.

Relatives and friends from outside of Saline county came from Indianapolis and Gary, Ind., Danville, La Grange, Canton, Centralia, Benton, Marion, St. Louis, Macomb, Creal Springs, and Mexico. Ponies, swings, and tractor and trailer with recreational equipment furnished diversion for the younger generation. Officers for next year's meeting are president, Byron Moore; vice president, Lowell Moore; secretary, Mary Louise Moore; and treasurer, Bernard W. Moore. All were from Harrisburg.

Royal Service Program By Cornelia Leavell Circle

The Cornelia Leavell circle of the First Baptist church met Sept. 6 in the Educational building for a Royal Service meeting.

Sixteen members were present. Following a delicious dinner, a business meeting was opened with prayer by Laura Cummins. Bringing a shut-in to church was designated as the Community Mission for the month. The Royal Service program, "Along the Elephant Trail," was given by Bertha Wilson. Mrs. Mary Musgrave closed the business meeting with prayer. Mrs. Thelma Josey then gave an interesting talk on state missions, with a theme of "Paid in Full."

The hostesses for the dinner were Gertrude White and Pavah Whiteside. Others present were Marie Cooley, Lucinda McGuire, Lena Spencer, Mary Musgrave, Edna Lewis, Hazel May, Laura Cummins, Millicent Guard, Ruby Voach, Susy Boardman, Thelma Josey, Bertha Wilson, LaVerne Clayton, and Fern Moore.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Millard Oxford, Clinton, Ind., Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Bumgarner and children, June and Phillip, Universal, Ind., Mrs. Mabel Eadie and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Holland, St. Louis, and Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Walton and son, Gerald, Harrisburg, RFD 2. A fish fry and picnic at Cave-in-Rock Sunday and an outdoor picnic at home Monday were enjoyed by the guests.

Judge Dennis Urges Renewal of Family Life In Altar Society Address

Resuming their regular monthly meetings St. Ann's Altar society of St. Mary's Catholic church met Wednesday evening in the church hall with 35 members present.

County Judge Trafton Dennis, guest speaker, spoke on "Youth, Home and the School." He urged a renewal of "family life" and stated that children should be made to feel that they are partners in the home.

The devotion was given by Mrs. George Johnson who read extracts from the book "Shrines of the United States."

Mrs. Lena Kozley, president, announced that the next meeting would be a potluck followed by a business meeting.

Mrs. J. J. Klein displayed a white dress suitable for First Communion and asked for volunteers to make some of these dresses. They are to be sent to the Holy Father warehouse and will be used by the children of Europe and Asia and other missions. She also announced that the meeting of the Eldorado Deaneery of the National Council of Catholic Women would be held at Olney Sept. 28, and the Diocesan convention will be held at Chester Oct. 12.

The meeting was opened and closed with prayer by Mrs. Andrew Debes.

Refreshments of homemade cookies and coffee were served by the committee in charge: Mrs. John Noonan, Mrs. Floyd Keyes, Mrs. Simon Boulds, Mrs. John Noonan Jr., Mrs. James McKenna, Mrs. Robert Patrick, Mrs. Forrest Bynum, Mrs. Mike Gelsosky, Mrs. Shannon Taylor, Mrs. Arthur Debes and Mrs. William Zimmer.

Craighead Circle Hosts Potluck Dinner

The Craighead Circle of the First Baptist church met Sept. 8 in the Educational building for a potluck dinner at noon to close the year's work as a circle. Six guests and thirteen members were present.

Mrs. Archie Abney, chairman, conducted a short business meeting. The opening song was "More Love to Thee" and was followed by prayer by Mrs. Roscoe Metcalf. Mrs. Abney expressed her appreciation of the support the officers and members had given her and read a poem entitled "One More Chance." She also presented each member a bookmark as a gift. Mrs. Stanley Price, program chairman, then gave a devotion with a theme of "Jesus, Our Pattern in Christian Living." Mrs. Walter Wirth then led in prayer. A lovely gift was then presented to Mrs. Abney from the circle. The closing song was "God Be With Us Till We Meet Again."

Guests present were Mrs. J. R. Morman and Becky, Carolyn Hermon, Janice Phelps, Mrs. Thelma Josey, and Mrs. Betty Heatherly and baby. Members present were Mrs. Archie Abney, Mrs. B. F. Fearheiley, Mrs. Pearl Allen, Mrs. Olen Perkins, Mrs. Harry Brookbank, Mrs. George Lindenmuth, Mrs. Charles Wilson, Mrs. Stanley Price, Mrs. Annie Pankey, Mrs. R. F. Land, Mrs. Roscoe Metcalf, Mrs. Waldo Herron, and Mrs. Walter Wirth.

GOP Chairmen To Petition Ike

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—Republican state chairmen finish their "campaign school" term today and it was indicated their final assignment will be adoption of a resolution urging the President to seek a second term.

The resolution by Samuel L. Bodine, state party chairman for New Jersey, was assured of unanimous adoption. Presumably the group then would present it personally to the President at Denver Saturday when he plays host to the school at breakfast. The party officials will fly to Denver tonight on a chartered plane.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon told the party officials Thursday he is more optimistic than ever that the President will run. He said Mr. Eisenhower, however, will make that decision "at the time it should be made" and that he will make it on the basis of whether he thinks he is needed and whether he is in the best possible physical condition.

On that score Nixon said he never saw the President looking better or sharper. People who think he will quit the White House to take it easy are mistaken, he said.

Nixon predicted the big issue in '56 will be the nation's economy.

Disputes Idle Ports; Threaten Westinghouse

By United Press
Labor disputes added the giant port of New York for the third straight day today and threatened to send 44,000 CIO employees of Westinghouse Electric Corp. on a coast-to-coast strike.

Meanwhile, CIO United Auto Workers members voted unanimously at a mass meeting to end a violence-sparked wildcat strike at the Chrysler Corporation's Indianapolis plant.

The CIO International Union of Electrical Workers said its members are voting more than 2 to 1 for a nationwide strike at midnight Sunday to back 2,200 workers who walked out at the firm's East Pittsburgh, Pa., plant Aug. 8.

Dockers Defy Court

The workers struck in protest against a company time study of job efficiency, and about 9,000 other production and office workers were furloughed as a result. The strike vote already has sparked walkouts by 5,600 workers at four Westinghouse plants in New Jersey.

On the East Coast, leaders of the Independent Longshoremen's Union defied court orders and pleas of state officials to go back to work.

The 10-million-dollar-a-day walkout has shut down the port of New York and Longshoremen in Philadelphia, Boston, Norfolk and Baltimore have also refused to go to the docks.

In other labor developments, the IAW and the International Harvester Co. agreed to seek the help of a third party in settling a seven-state strike and an agreement was reached affecting 23,000 glass workers.

Soil Group Visits Eight Farms in County

building of diversions, digging of ponds, contouring of crops and the rearrangement of fences and fields on the farm. Yields of corn and wheat have been doubled on this farm since the practices were put in about 1948.

Pasture establishment on waste land was the center of interest at the Suttner place. A field once badly gullied and grown up in brush, briars and broom sedge was visited. A bulldozer was used and a soil test made. The ground was treated and now is fine pasture land.

Mr. Wagner showed band seedling of pastures at the Carter farm. Band seedling provides for the placement of the grass and legume seed in a band immediately above a band of starter fertilizer. Most wheat drills are equipped, at a cost of $70 to $100, to do this job. Grasses so seeded will make more rapid early growth as their roots come in contact with an ample supply of available plant food soon after germination.

Gray Praises Work
Mr. Gholson showed the group a diversion terrace on his place. A slope like Mr. Gholson's, to prevent the water from running down to a flat bottom. This will help dry up the bottom land.

Congressman Gray, after making the tour, declared to A. A. Gholson, president of the board of directors of the Saline County Soil Conservation district, that "the American farmer is the backbone of the nation," and praised the work of the farmers of Saline county.

He urged each farmer to avail themselves of the technical assistance offered by the U. S. Soil Conservation service.

Gray praised the work of the Saline County Soil Conservation district, declaring that this group, with the aid of Tom Morgan, farm planner, and his assistant have been helping the farmers help themselves.

Armenia was the first country officially to embrace Christianity.

Army Reserve Stunt Backfires

DETROIT (AP)—The U. S. Army began a strategic retreat in Michigan today because a stunt designed to encourage inactive Army reservists to enlist in the active reserve backfired.

The Michigan military district recently sent out sample checks to 62,000 inactive reservists to show them how much they would have received if they had attended drills in the active reserve.

The strategy went amiss, however, when a group of the reservists tried to cash the checks and at least four of them succeeded.

The checks, which were plainly marked "cancelled," ranged in value from $254.97 to $720.03.

State Payrolls Show Increase

SPRINGFIELD (UP)—State payrolls increased by 743 persons and $209,640.91 from April to May, State Auditor Orville E. Hodge reported today.

A total of 47,249 persons were paid $13,466,063.86 in May compared to 46,506 persons who drew $13,256,422.95 in April.

Angry Husband, Struggling Mate Blown to Bits

SHEPHERD, Mich. (AP)—A bickering couple was blown to bits Thursday when the angry husband clung to his struggling mate while two sticks of dynamite he held in his other hand exploded.

Versal Dunn, a 50-year-old factory worker, killed himself and his wife, Blanche, 39, because he was unable to reconcile a dispute which led to their separation three weeks ago, police said.

Neighbors told police Dunn had attempted a reconciliation with his wife since Tuesday. But Mrs. Dunn refused to admit him to the home of her married daughter, Mrs. Duane Fisher, where she had fled after a family quarrel.

One of the neighbors, Guy Brooks, told police he saw Dunn drive past the house several times Thursday before he drove into the driveway. He said he saw Dunn fumble around in the back seat of his car and then pull out two sticks of dynamite with the fuses sputtering.

Dunn called to his wife and she came out on the porch but started to return when she saw her husband, Brooks told police. The angry husband grabbed his wife and dragged her about 10 feet when the dynamite exploded, shattering windows in the house and blowing a hole six feet deep in the ground.

Brooks, who was about 100 feet from the blast and Mrs. Fisher and her six children, who were in the house, all escaped injury.

Who Rides With Wyatt

Ringo was the first thing Wyatt bumped into when he began to drift through Tombstone that long ago Saturday night. The next and last thing was a fagged, big-eyed Mexican kid that shagged telegrams from the office over on Toughnut Street. All the kid had to offer Wyatt was that Jake Shaggy, the night operator, had a confidential message for him down at the station.

The wire was from the United States Marshal for Arizona, Crawley P. Dake at Phoenix: GOOD WORK BENSON STAGE LAST WEEK. URGENT SEE YOU AT ONCE.

It was a Saturday night, two weeks later, when Frank Stilwell and Pete Spence, coming out of the Palace, spotted him riding up to the O.K. Stable with another horseman. At about the same time, he spotted them and flagged a wave at them to hold up.

His companion waited where he was while Wyatt swung down and walked over to them.

"Boys," he greeted them civilly, "I'm back to make a little deal with you all. We've had our ups and downs, it's so. But it hasn't been my fault that we none of us knew from one day to the next where I stood. Things are going to be some different from now on."

The two outlaws didn't know just how to take his approach.

"What's your proposition?" asked Stilwell, directly.

Wyatt grinned. "Well now, Frank, if you and a few of the boys will get together in the back room, yonder"—he thumbed the Palace doors—"say in about an hour, I think I can give you all the details you'll need to know." "We'll spread it around," shrugged Stilwell. "Can't say how the boys will take it. Can't guarantee you no audience. I reckon some of 'em will show, though."

"The more the merrier," said Wyatt. "I've brought a friend with me that wants to be cut in on the play, too. He's new in these parts but he knows his business."

They handed their horses over to the buck-toothed stableboy, walked right on through the barn and out into the alley behind it. Inside the next half-hour they had gotten Mayor Clum out of bed, had him rustle up a rump session of the Citizen's Safety Committee, and brought the midnight meeting to order behind the drawn blinds of the Epitaph's pressroom.

Wyatt's subject was "Politics and Peace Officers," and he must have spoken right well on it, for inside of 10 minutes the committee, which was 90 per cent composed of city council members and was sitting as such the minute they heard Wyatt's proposition, had passed a resolution supporting his program and welcoming his guest to Tombstone, all in the same and mighty eager breath.

The pressroom was dark again a quarter of an hour after they'd filed into it, and Wyatt was walking down Allen toward the Palace with his so-far silent friend.

When he closed that door to peer through the cigar smoke and sour-mash fumes of that back room, he counted a pretty good house. There were Frank and Pete, naturally. Then Ike and Phil, of the Clantons; Pony Deal, Frank Patterson, Billy Claiborne and four, five others new to him. Behan wasn't there, of course, nor were Curly Bill or the McLowrys. Ringo was missing.

"Gentlemen," he said elaborately, "I'd like you to meet my brother, Virgil."

Nobody said a word, so he got on with it.

"I have just come from a meeting of the city council. As you will recall, I left office here without having time to get a town marshal appointed to replace Ferd Wagner. I am authorized by tonight's special meeting to introduce to you the man who will look after the local law and order from now on. He and I have drawn up a little set of six rules which the council has passed favorably on, and which you might do well to listen to right about here. They'll be read through once, slow and careful. After that, it's every man for himself. Virgil."

He stepped back, giving the floor to his brother. Virgil read off the new regulations.

No. 1 said there'd be no more riding horses on the board sidewalks; No. 2, that said animals would no longer be permitted inside saloons with the owner topside; No. 3, that popping off firearms in the city limits, saving on Christmas, New Year's and the Fourth of July, was out the well-known window; No. 4, that six-guns would not be worn low on the hips this season inside the corporate confines of Tombstone, excepting by gentlemen who could furnish acceptable proof they were strictly passing through the town with no idea of spending the winter; No. 5, that gun racks would be set up in designated saloons, hotels, stores and corrals, for the purpose of allowing the locals to check their hardware on arrival and reclaim it on departure. No. 6 was the joker.

It just said that unmanageable drunks would be subject to a free night in the city jail. It might as well have said what it meant, for it was clear enough to each and all of the listening outlaws. From now on the town marshal could put the clamp on anybody that was in his way and had liquor on his breath.

Forest Fires Out of Control In California

By United Press

Los Angeles' killer heat wave was apparently burning itself out today, but new forest fires broke out of control in California's parched brushlands.

Meanwhile, flood waters slowly receded in south Texas and temperatures warmed up in the nation's central and southern areas.

The record-breaking heat siege at Los Angeles appeared ended when the mercury climbed to a mere 96 Thursday and only 99 degrees was predicted today.

The heat wave, which sent the mercury into the 100s for eight straight days, is blamed for 100 deaths and about 25 million dollars' damage to agriculture.

In central California, meanwhile, a sudden shift in winds sent forest fires threatening two California areas and facing a state of emergency in a Santa Barbara area.

Near Santa Barbara, a fire went out of control on two fronts and became the worst in the history of the California coast. All available equipment was rushed to the San Marcos Canyon as the flames topped a 500-foot cliff overlooking a resort community.

In the 17,000-acre Sequoia National Forest, meanwhile, a blaze which was supposed to be controlled jumped its boundaries at two points. The same fire earlier threatened to destroy the General Grant redwood grove where giant trees have stood for 5,500 years. A new menace arose as the flames drove hundreds of rattlesnakes among the firefighters. A rush order was issued for 3,000 pocket-sized snakebite kits to be distributed among the men.

In the last five years Americans have purchased more than 350,000 electrical appliances to increase their comfort and convenience. This is an average of two appliances for each man, woman and child in the United States.

FOOTBALL FORUM NO. 2: Michigan, Iowa, Ohio State Big Ten Toughies

Second of a series
By RAY ELIOT
Head Coach, Illinois
CHAMPAIGN, Ill.—(NEA)—Big Ten football has been by tradition a dog fight, and one of the fascinating facets of its history has been that even the cellar-dweller could never be overlooked.
In 1955, the balance of the league should be even more pronounced. The "haves," as far as experienced personnel is concerned, will be Michigan, Indiana, Ohio State, Northwestern, Iowa, Purdue and Wisconsin, all the way from the Wolverines' 24 lettermen to fine team by graduation.
These are my capsule comments on the outlook of the squads:

NEA'S PROBABLE ALL-BIG TEN TEAM

E—Ron Kramer, Michigan
E—Lamar Lundy, Purdue
T—Wells Gray, Wisconsin
T—Bob Skoronski, Indiana
G—Calvin Jones, Iowa
G—Jim Parker, Ohio State
C—Ted Ringer, Northwestern
QB—Len Dawson, Purdue
HB—Howard Cassidy, Ohio St.
HB—Earl Smith, Iowa
FB—Lou Baldacci, Michigan

Michigan—Viewed as the potential champion. Fine strength at ends, wingback and center. Problems involve depth at tackle and fullback. Outstanding individuals: Ron Kramer, 6-3, 218, end; Lou Baldacci, 6-1, 196, quarterback or

Rookie Spooner Toast of Flag Winning Dodgers

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP)—A rookie pitcher with a flair for strikeouts, Karl Spooner, was the toast of the Brooklyn Dodgers today and a probable World Series pitcher with the earliest National League pennant in history safely tucked away.

"I had the best stuff since I broke in with 15 strikeouts," Spooner said after striking out the first four men he faced and five others while holding the Milwaukee Braves hitless five and one-third innings Friday for the pennant clincher.

The Sept. 8, 10-2 victory enabled the Dodgers to break their own Sept. 12, 1953 record for early pennants. Ironically, the victims were the same club and the same pitcher they beat for the previous record—the Milwaukee Braves and Bob Buhl.

The 24-year-old Spooner relieved starter Roger Craig put two men on with singles.

"I couldn't say for sure who my World Series pitcher will be," Brooklyn Manager Walt "Smoky" Alton said. "Don Newcombe for sure, and Carl Erskine, Billy Loes and Spooner if they hold up the way they have been the last three days."

"I'll have to look at Erskine, Loes and Spooner a few more times before the end of the month to be sure," Alton said. "Then I'll know for sure. But right now they look like a good bet along with Newcombe."

Alton would make no series predictions nor would Brooklyn President Walter O'Malley. "Our course has been clear to aim for the World Championship," O'Malley said at the Dodgers' celebration party Thursday night. "We may not make it, but we'll give somebody a helluva scare."

Such restraint is understandable for the president of a club which has never won a World Series in eight appearances since the turn of the century. It was obvious, however, he had the highest hopes of all time.

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP)—Seven-foot Wilt (The Stilt) Chamberlain, the nation's most widely-sought high school basketball player of last year, starts playing freshman ball for Kansas this year but rival Coach Sparky Stalcup of Missouri won't start worrying until he plays varsity next season.

"My aspirin budget for this year has been established and can't be increased," explained Stalcup.

Trabert, Hoad Expected to Meet in Finals

FOREST HILLS, N. Y. (AP)—Top-seeded Tony Trabert, and Lew Hoad of Australia were overwhelming favorites to sweep into the semi-finals of the U. S. Tennis Championship today and set the stage for another slugging match between them on Saturday.

Trabert, the 25-year-old Wimbledon champion from Cincinnati, was matched against dogged Harlie Flam of Beverly Hills, Calif., and it was Hoad against 21-year-old Sammy Giammalva of Houston, Tex., in a pair of tests to fill out the last two brackets in the semi-finals.

Defending champion Vic Seixas of Philadelphia and canny little Ken Rosewall of Australia made the semi-final right on schedule Thursday and they'll meet in the upper bracket match on Saturday.

Seixas tuned up Thursday by breezing through Bernard Barten of San Angelo, Tex., for two sets and then blowing cold briefly in the third for a 6-3, 6-1, 13-11 victory. Rosewall dispatched third-seeded Hamilton Richardson of Baton Rouge, La., 6-4, 9-7, 2-6, 6-3.

In the women's division, defending champion Doris Hart of Coral Gables, Fla., and Mrs. Dorothy Head Knode of New York, fought their way into the semi-finals Thursday and Mrs. Beverly Baker Fleitz of Long Beach, Calif., was expected to join them today by defeating eighth-seeded Barbara Breit of North Hollywood, Calif.

The fourth semi-final spot up for grabs was more or less a toss-up between Pat Ward of England and tiny but terrific Belmar Ganderon of Fort Meade, Md., who pulled off the biggest upset of the tournament on Wednesday by ousting Wimbledon champion Louise Brough.

Fred Saigh, Three Minor Clubs Ask Tax Adjustments

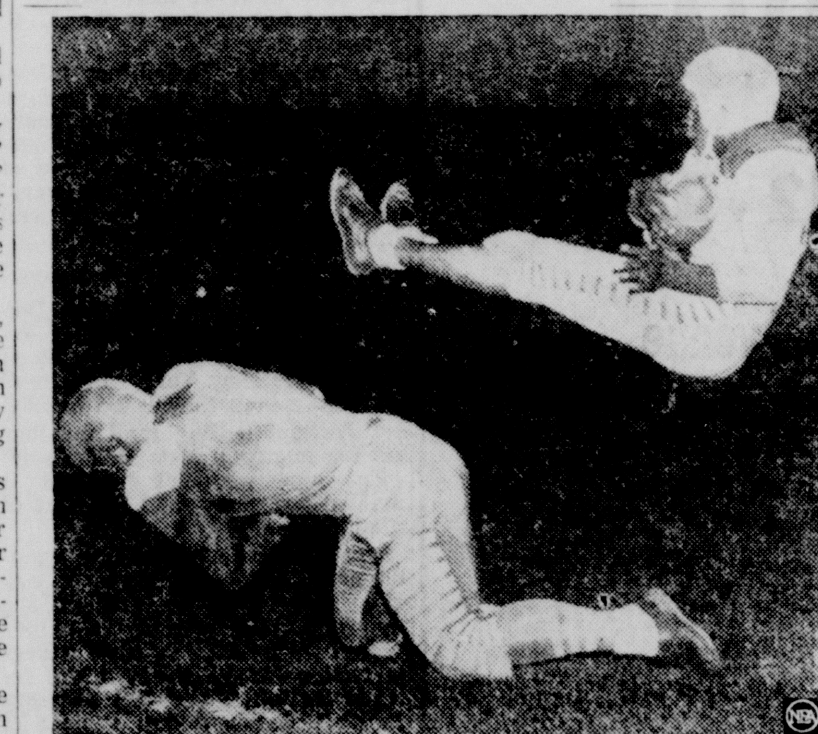

WASHINGTON (AP)—Fred M. Saigh Jr., his wife, and three minor league farm clubs of the St. Louis Cardinals have asked the U. S. Tax Court to redetermine back taxes and penalties. The Internal Revenue Service claims they owe.

Internal Revenue claims Saigh, former owner of the Cardinals, and his wife, Elizabeth, owe $19,785 in penalties for failure to file income tax estimates in 1951.

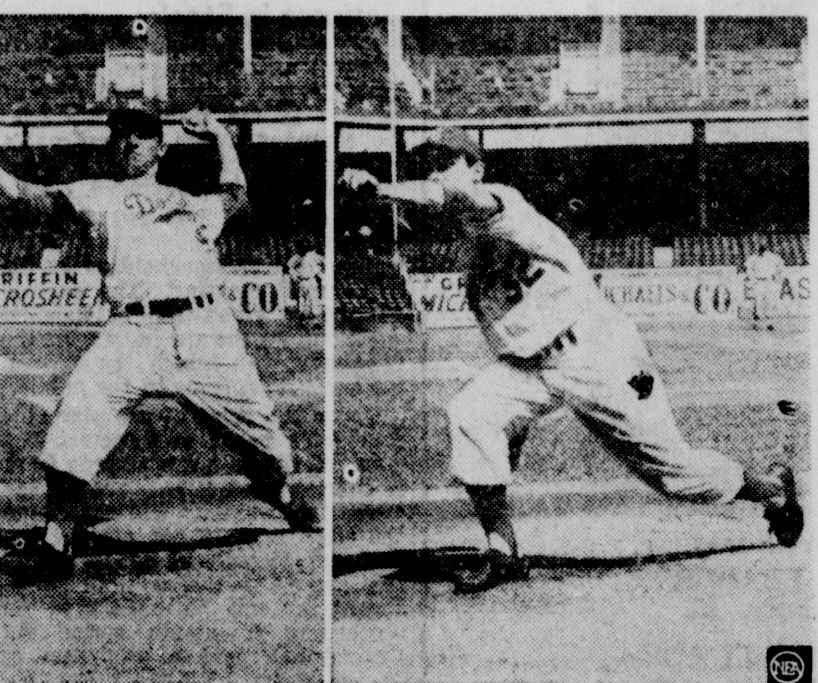

The St. Louis National Baseball Club, Inc., is accused of owing $212,214 in back taxes for its fiscal year ending Nov. 30, 1950. The government disallowed deductions for some scouting expenses, park maintenance, expenses for "special days," a party held at the Park Plaza Hotel July 8, 1950, and a payment to Saigh of $2,000 which was listed as scouting expense. The government said there was "no evidence" to show Saigh did any scouting.

The Rochester Redwing Baseball Club, Inc., is charged with income tax deficiencies amounting to $5,431.29 for 1949, the Houston Baseball Assn. is charged with a tax deficiency of $4,289.44 for 1948 and $3,769.04 for 1949 and the Columbus Baseball Club, Inc., is charged with an income tax deficiency of $932.49 for 1948, U. S. Tax Court records showed. All three farm clubs are affiliated with the Cardinals.

LIGHTER THAN AIR—Bob Blakeley of the North is understandably startled as he floats through the air after being hit by South's Jim Hastings in the Minnesota High School All-Star Game in Minneapolis. South meant it and won, 20-13.

FLYING START—Sandy Koufax rears back, loads up and lets 'em have it. With the Brooklyn club desperate for pitching, Koufax, a 19-year-old bony baby, struck out 14, a 1955 record in the National League, in his second start, shutting out Cincinnati with two hits.

Dodgers Clinch Pennant; Indians, Yankees Win as White Sox, Boston Lose

By United Press
Now that they've sipped champagne, the triumphant Brooklyn Dodgers would like a taste of that long green, and it looks like they're going to get their $3888 wish to meet either the Indians or Yankees in the World Series.

Both the Indians and Yankees are doing their damndest to accommodate the Dodgers, who were looking at the world through a bubble today after breaking their own record for the fastest pennant clinching in National league history.

The Indians clung to their half game lead in the American league by beating the Orioles, 5-3, in 10 innings Thursday while the second-place Yankees stayed right on the Tribe's tail by trampling the Athletics, 13-0.

Dodger outfielder Duke Snider, speaking for the rest of his teammates after Friday's wrap-up 10-2 victory over the Braves, said, "We don't care whether it's the Yankees or the Indians, but we'd like it to be either one of 'em because they both have big parks and that means more money."

Other Contenders Lose

The American league's two other contenders, Chicago and Boston, both blew 4-1 leads Thursday as the White Sox bowed to Washington, 5-4, and the Red Sox lost to the Tigers by the same score.

Virgil Trucks of the White Sox had a three-run lead over the Senators until Mickey Vernon homered with one on in the sixth and Washington went on to add the deciding two runs in the seventh. The defeat dropped the White Sox 2 1/2 games off the pace.

The Red Sox fell four games back when the Tigers rallied for four runs in the ninth inning to win.

Four-Run Burst

The Dodgers routed Bob Buhl with a four-run burst in the opening frame and then added another four-run cluster in the fifth inning with the help of Jackie Robinson's two-run homer. The Dodgers thus broke their own record for the earliest National league clinching, having set the previous mark when they wrapped up the 1953 flag on Sept. 12.

Despite two home runs by Wally Post, the Phillies topped the Redlegs, 6-4, with the aid of a fine relief job by Bob Miller, who was credited with the victory. Post became the first right-handed Cincinnati batter ever to hit more than 35 homers in one season when he slammed his 36th with the bases empty in the third and his 37th with one on in the seventh.

Billy Gardner's homer off loser Harvey Haddix highlighted a five-run rally in the sixth inning that gave the Giants a 6-2 victory over the Cardinals. Southpaw John (Windy) McCall gave up seven hits including a homer by Alex Grammas, in notching his sixth triumph. The Cubs and Pirates were idle.

Internal Revenue Still Undecided On Tax Ruling for Shower of Nickels

MT. PLEASANT, Mich. (AP) — "What this country needs is a good five-cent nickel and an Internal Revenue agent who knows how much to charge for it," an expert on the subject of nickels declared today.

It was just a year ago Saturday that Mrs. Charles Deibel, wife of a household appliance salesman, was selected on a national television show as the recipient of a shower of nickels that could have made her wealthy.

As it turned out, the shower did amount to a small fortune. The $8,200 collected in more than 100,000 pieces of mail was almost twice as much as the annual salary of Mrs. Deibel's husband.

Internal Revenue Undecided

But the young couple still doesn't know how much of the money is legally theirs. The Internal Revenue Department has never decided whether to charge the Deibels a gift tax on the $8,200 windfall, or to consider it as non-taxable, individual five-cent gifts.

"I chew my fingernails down to the quick every time I start wondering whether Uncle Sam is going to nick us in our next income tax payment," the pretty housewife said. "I wish somebody in Washington would decide whether we can save what we have left, or if we must turn it over to the U. S. Treasury."

Neither Mrs. Deibel nor television comedian Garry Moore foresaw the tax difficulty when Moore declared on the spur of the moment during his television show of last Sept. 10, "I think that everyone watching the show should send this nice woman a nickel."

Mail Poured In

By the time Mr. and Mrs. Deibel and their small daughter returned home from the weekend vacation in New York, the mail was more than they could handle.

"We kept getting mail for four or five months," Mrs. Deibel said. "But now we don't even get a dribble any more—and I'm sort of glad."

The housewife had always wanted an electric organ, and it was the only item on which she splurged. The rest of the money went into the little family's college education fund, where it will remain for future use—unless Uncle Sam decides he'd like a piece of it himself.

17 Employees of NYC to Receive Bonuses in Stock

Seventeen employees of the New York Central railroad will receive bonuses in the form of stock in the company under the railroad's new incentive plan, Alfred E. Perlman, president, announced.

These are the first awards made under the plan, which was approved by Central stockholders at the last annual meeting. The awards are being given for outstanding contributions toward increasing the efficiency with which the Central performs its service to the public.

Under the rules of the plan, the company's board of directors has the authority to make awards from a special incentive account to which the company will contribute not more than 10 per cent of annual net income in excess of $2 per share of the capital stock. Award can only be made if in the preceding 12-month period the Central has paid a minimum of $2 per share in dividends. The New York Central is currently on a 50-cent quarterly dividend basis for the first time since 1931.

AAA Praises Aid by GM to High School Drivers' Education

Announcement by General Motors that a special allowance will be given to its auto dealers who loan new cars to high schools for driver education classes was highly praised by the American Automobile Association today.

Andrew J. Sordani, Wilkes-Barre, Pa., president of the AAA, sent a congratulatory message to Harlow H. Curtice, GM president, saying the action will undoubtedly help extend the high school driver education program, thus saving lives and benefiting all highway users. Mr. Sordani based this statement on studies which show complete driver education courses reduce accidents by more than 50 per cent.

Only about one-fourth of the nation's high schools are now able to give complete high school driver education classes including behind-the-wheel practice. Borrowing cars from dealers is practically the only source schools have.

The AAA spokesman said the $125 "discount" which the factory will now give dealers on cars loaned to schools will aid dealers in meeting the growing need for training cars.

Mr. Sordani said that the failure of efforts by some congressmen to eliminate the federal excise taxes on these cars was a big disappointment to many dealers and the GM offer is "just the kind of encouragement they need." He expressed the hope that other manufacturers would follow the GM lead.

Water Birds

Grebes are more like fish than birds, spending almost their entire lives either in or on the water. Even when the bird builds her nest, she does not come to land, but makes one that floats on the water, constructing it of rushes and decaying vegetation.
